

Y. M. C. A. Workers Are Sixth Of Way Toward Their Goal

Kingston's Y. M. C. A. finance campaign with a goal set at $25,533 was off to a flying start Monday evening when the campaign workers at the first report dinner reported a total of 356 subscribers contributing $4,367.80. The next report dinner meeting will be held Wednesday evening at the "Y."

The campaign this year marks the 75th anniversary of the founding of the "Y" movement in Kingston.

One of the highlights of the evening, aside from the reports of the workers, was the witty address by Dr. James Lee Ellerwood of New York city, state "Y" secretary, and a former Methodist minister.

Dr. Ellerwood has been actively identified with "Y" work for over 15 years, and he said that worthwhile institutions that were always in need of funds to carry on a successful work were the church and the "Y." He cited a number of incidents in "Y" and church drives that he had taken part in in the years that are past.

The speaker said that the program of activities carried on by the local association compared favorably with other cities in New York state who were larger staffed and had more money to carry on the work. In closing he urged the workers not to forget that in order for the "Y" to carry on successfully its work with the youth of the city it needed funds.

Principal Clarence Dunn of the Kingston High School, who is president of the local "Y," presided at the dinner meeting, and called attention to the fact that the local association had very seldom called for outside help since "Bob" Sisson has been secretary of the "Y" but this year was an unusual one, and it should also not be overlooked, he said, that the "Y" had received several unexpected blows during the past year.

One of them was the necessity of spending $1,500 on the swimming pool, another the death of Boys' Work Secretary Bookwalter in December.

But the "Y" did not feel it was calling for outside help when it asked the National "Y" and the state "Y" committee to send two men here to help put over the drive.

After the serving of an excellent dinner Alderman Paul Zucca with Danny Bittner led the campaign workers in the singing of a number of campaign songs that peppeled up the meeting and helped the interest in the financial reports that were to follow.

The reports follow:

| | Subs. Amount |
|--------------------------|--------------|
| Women's Division | $ 353.25 |

| B. C. Van Inger Div. 104 | 676.50 |

Total for first day 356 $4,367.80

Four of the campaign workers had obtained subscriptions totaling $100 or more and had their names written on the "Hundred Dollar Honor Roll." The four were Miss Mary Treadwell, DeWitt Wells, Ernest LeFevre and George Matthews.

That the churches of the city are taking an active interest in the campaign was shown by the presence of several members of the Ministerial Association of the local Chapter.

The Town of Saugerties Ministerial Association held its recent meeting at the Sutton House in Malden.

The Saugerties Co-operative Savings and Loan Association moved into its newly purchased building the former Saugerties Bank building on Main street.

The dispute over the Divine Hope Farm children and the Blue Mountain school district, before Justice Rogers in West Saugerties the past week, has been adjusted. Through the efforts of Mrs. Huber, wife of the district attorney of Queens county, who became interested in the matter, it has been decided that a teacher will be provided to enable the children at the Hope Farm to get an education. The teacher must be to the satisfaction of Superintendent of Schools Clarence Johnson and trustee Mrs. Pekuriney of the Blue Mountain school district. Should this adjustment fail then the State Education Department will be requested to decide the matter which will end the dispute in this district.

Wesley Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith of the Kings Highway has accepted a position as 4-H Club agent of Yates county with headquarters in Penn Yan.

The Saugerties high school debate team had the honor of finishing in second place in the Eastern Interscholastic League. The team failed by one debate to qualify for the state championship after having an extra debate to determine a tie. Eight members of the team have qualified as individual members of the National Forensic League as follows: Raymond Tuttle, William Woestendiek, Eugene Woestendiek, Robert Shultz, Rosemarie Bittner, Ruth Jaffe, Clair Smith, and Ella Ritter.

Mrs. Lillian Marcey, who has been a patient at the Bonesteel Sanitarium for the past several weeks, has improved and is now with her son in Troy.

Roland E. Heerman, of Washington avenue made a recent business trip to Boston, Mass.

The official homecoming visit of District Deputy Arthur D. Lamb of Ulster Lodge, No. 193, F. & A. M., will be held in this village Wednesday evening, April 24, and extensive plans are being made for the affair. A dinner will be served at the Reformed church banquet hall at 6:30 o'clock and the meeting will follow in the Saugerties high school auditorium, where D. G. M. Lamb will deliver the message of the grand master to the members present. The guest speakers will be the Hon. Seth T. Cole, of Catskill, chairman of the Grand Lodge committee on records and finance and Jacob C. Klinck of Brooklyn, past master of the Grand Lodge, F. & A. M. of the state. There will also be a program of entertainment and it is expected that about 1,000 members will be present.

Mrs. Julius Bartels, who has been a patient at the Bonesteel Sanitarium, has returned to her home on Overbaugh street.

The Board of Education of the Malden school district has engaged the following school faculty for 1940-41 school year: Principal Myron Miller, Miss Blanch Gulnac and Mrs. Ella Clement, teachers.

The John A. Snyder Insurance Agency, Attorney Morris Rosenblum and Attorney Ernest Schirmer have moved their offices into the former Saugerties Bank building on Main street, recently purchased by the Saugerties Co-operative Savings and Loan Association.

The regular meeting of the Malden P.T.A. will be held at the school Wednesday evening, April 24. The election of officers and guest speaker, Mrs. Richard Van Etten of Katrine, will feature the evening program.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Clara L. Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Gardner, of West Camp, to Peter A. Ercet of Cementon.

Mrs. John C. Becker and son, of Waterloo, spent the past week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Fellows, on Ulster avenue. The public is invited to hear the Oswego State Normal school choir, which will present a concert in the high school auditorium on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Rhoda K. Wood, teacher of the first grade in the Main street school and Miss Mary Tarbox, teacher of the history department in the high school have resigned their positions and will not return after the close of the school year.

Miss Maud Mulford, who has been spending the winter months in Florida, has returned to her home here.

Sums Mishandled Committee Says

Washington, April 22 (P) — In secret session, the House subcommittee handling the $875,000,000 WPA appropriation bill discussed with WPA chiefs today charges that some of the money previously given the relief agency was mishandled.

The charges, contained in a report made by J. O'Connor Roberts, committee counsel, have not been made public, but Chairman Woodrum (D. Va.) said that in general they alleged excessive travel expenses and administrative costs, WPA work done on private property and improper certifications of persons for WPA work.

The WPA officials appearing were Commissioner F. C. Harrington and Col. Breton Somerville, administrator in New York city.

Woodrum predicted that the appropriation bill would not reach the House for three weeks more. Hearings will require at least two weeks more, he said, adding that a third week would be needed to prepare final drafts.

President Roosevelt has urged congressional leaders to push the measure to enactment as an aid to early adjournment. Leaders have tentatively set June 10 as the adjournment goal.

The navy's effort to obtain congressional approval for expansion continued before the Senate naval committee, where Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig declared that the trend of developments in the Far East might eventually force the United States into war against Japan.

Taussig, former assistant chief of naval operations, asserted that he was expressing only his own viewpoint.

Many radiators in one-pipe steam heating systems fail to heat up because of faulty valves. Air valves on such radiators should be checked to determine if they are allowing the trapped air to escape, thus permitting the steam to replace it in the radiator.

Dr. Neill Believes Drouth Grains Are Cause of Disease

Norman, Okla., April 23 (AP)—Dr. Alma J. Neill, who has spent seven years seeking the cause of encephalitis, a brain inflammation commonly known as sleeping sickness, is "more firmly convinced than ever" that both humans and animals contract the disease from eating drouth-affected grains.

The University of Oklahoma physiology professor, said today she was continuing the extensive research she started in 1933 after a sleeping sickness epidemic took 60 lives in St. Louis, hoping that a cure can be developed if the cause is established definitely.

After working in secrecy for more than four years, Dr. Neill disclosed the first results of her research at a meeting of the American Association of Pathologists in Baltimore in 1938.

She outlined her belief that the disease sprang from an "alcohol soluble toxin"—a poison which cannot be broken down by heat—in sweet corn, and that it actually was not contagious.

Dr. Neill, who grew up on an Illinois corn farm, hit upon the idea while driving past corn fields near St. Louis at the time of the 1933 epidemic.

Noticing that dry weather had turned the stalks an unnatural color, she obtained ears of corn from several fields and brought them to her laboratory, where she experimented with rats—"hundreds of them."

"I could make the rats go to sleep and recover, or make them go to sleep and not recover," she said, "by varying the amount of toxin."

At present, she disclosed in an interview, she is experimenting with horses, hundreds of which are killed by sleeping sickness in Oklahoma every year.

"I don't know just how the toxin gets there, but I believe the weather condition affects the grains. We know that all epidemics have been preceded by dry weather."

Annenberg Pleads Guilty to Evading U. S. Income Tax

Chicago, April 23 (AP)—M. L. Annenberg, defendant in the largest criminal federal income tax case in history, pleaded guilty today in evading $1,217,296.73 of income taxes for the year 1936.

The plea by the wealthy Philadelphia publisher and former head of an international racing news empire, was entered to the fifth count of an indictment accusing him of evading $3,258,809.97 in taxes for the years 1932 to 1936, inclusive.

Fifty per cent penalties and 6 per cent interest would bring to $5,548,384.89 the aggregate which the federal government claimed against him.

A plea of guilty to the fifth count also was entered by Joseph Hafner, alias Samuel Goldfarb, a business associate of Annenberg, who with 11 others was accused of aiding and abetting the publisher in the alleged evasion.

Farmers Receive New Fertilizer

Ithaca, April 23—Four hundred and twenty-one tons of "metaphos," a new TVA phosphatic fertilizer, were shipped this spring from Muscle Shoals, Alabama, to test-demonstration farms in 31 New York counties.

The phosphate will be applied on sod crops for holding water and soil and building fertility, and to show the place of phosphorus in the dairy feed crop rotation.

The Tennessee Valley Authority supplies it to farmers who are cooperating with the extension service of the New York state college of agriculture in the tests.

Chosen by their neighbors, the farms selected are practical test grounds for the communities in which they are located. The families keep records and obtain information as to the value, effect, and best methods of use of the phosphate. Neighbors visit the farms, consult with the demonstrators, and adapt practices to their own needs.

Farms in 31 Counties

The program in New York state is in effect on 207 demonstration farms in the following counties: Albany, Allegany, Broome, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chemung, Chenango, Columbia, Cortland, Delaware, Erie, Franklin, Genesee, Jefferson, Lewis, Livingston, Madison, Montgomery, Niagara, Onondaga, Orleans, Otsego, Rensselaer, St. Lawrence, Saratoga, Schenectady, Seneca, Steuben, Tioga, Tompkins, and Wyoming.

Largest shipments of the fertilizer have gone to Steuben county, 28 tons; Delaware, 24 tons; Otsego, 22 tons; Livingston, 20 tons; and Lewis, Cattaraugus, Schenectady, and Allegany counties, 17 tons each.

"Metaphos," known chemically as calcium metaphosphate, is more concentrated than any phosphatic fertilizer now in common use by farmers. It contains more than 60 per cent of available phosphatic plant food; ordinary superphosphate carries little more than 16 per cent, it is pointed out. Emphasis is put on concentrated phosphates because they affect savings in bagging, freight and handling costs.

Phosphate is usually applied with lime. Crop experts say that phosphate and lime make thrifty growth of legumes that enrich the soil with nitrogen, taken from the air. Sowed broadcast, legumes also check erosion and, when plowed under as green manure, add organic matter to the soil.

The testing and demonstrating on New York farms is a part of a national program being carried on by 27,000 farmers in 20 states under the direction of their state agricultural extension services.

Takes Possession of Desk

New York, April 23 (AP)—A well-dressed woman of about 35 took possession of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's desk during his absence from city hall today and tearfully announced that she would not leave until the mayor granted her an interview. Neither the mayor's secretaries nor police attaches could persuade her to leave, although they told her, and quite correctly, that his honor was in Washington. Finally, after about a half hour, Miss Gertrude Keene, a stenographer, convinced the visitor that she was wasting her time. City hall attaches gathered that she wanted a job.

RELIGIOUS REINFORCEMENTS

An optimistic view of the world's present chaos was taken in a recent sermon by the Rev. Dr. A. E. Keigwin in New York city. He sees the war as less a spasm of nationalism than an eruption of pent-up spiritual life and power.

"Along with the self-destructive economic warfare is seen very definite moral and religious warfare," he said. "For this reason this may very well prove the beginning of a creative epoch, the greatest of all time. We are finding our way through the defeats of life to sanity of life and to social security. Because this conflict is essentially ethical, there is a growing call for spiritual reinforcements. This is the best assurance for the future, the surest reliance for a ruined world."

There is something in this view. The teachings of the great religious leaders of the past, if really applied, would not only bring peace but would probably solve the economic problems that baffle governments and societies. Acceptance of the idea of the brotherhood of man and of the Golden Rule would produce practical results more far-reaching and lasting than force and conquest could attain.

BOMBS FOR GOATS

It may be a bit rough on the goats, if seventy of them are used as targets in an army test of Lester P. Barlow's oxygen-and-carbon bombs. And it is not surprising that "pet lovers," meaning lovers of pets, are rallying to block the experiment. But even the Maryland law which prohibits drastic use of animals for experimental purposes makes an exception when it is "justified by the public interest." And presumably it would be in the public interest if such a test resulted in giving our army a powerful new weapon for defense.

The Barlow bomb is claimed to be so potent that it can kill any enemy at some distance merely by explosion shock transmitted through the air. The present idea is that if goats can be so shocked to death, human enemies would never have a chance against such a weapon.

The experimenters, however, may be reckoning without their goats. If goats are what they used to be, the doomed seventy might anticipate the attack, eat the bombs and then start looking around for something worthy of their digestive powers.

LOVE AND VITAMINS

A Nebraska doctor, who is also a nutrition expert, springs a new theory about springtime love. It isn't necessarily love that arouses this vernal emotion going by that name, he says. It's "spring fever due to vitamin deficiency," and mostly curable by taking enough of the proper pills.

This seems to be carrying the vitamin theory, or fad, or faith, to dangerous extremes. Suppose now that the doctor is right. And suppose that all these boys and girls mooning around so sentimentally in the springtime were to raid the drugstores for spring-cure vitamins Number So-and-So. And suppose the cure worked.

The results would be dreadful to contemplate. No spring sentiment, no poetry, no June weddings. And where would that leave the human race after a couple of generations of such disillusionment and vitamin-addiction?

AMERICAN CHEESE

The National Dairy Council says the per capita consumption of cheese in this country was 5.75 pounds in 1938. That was more than twice as much cheese as our parents and grandparents ate.

A great deal of excellent cheese is made in the United States now, including many of the types formerly obtainable only from certain regions abroad.

The growing enthusiasm for cheese is a wholesome one. This tasty food is the most concentrated source of the highest quality proteins. It is rich in calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin A. Its iron content, though small, is in an easily assimilated form. It is among the inexpensive foods, and one with so many different tastes and textures and uses that there is no monotony in its frequent appearance at lunch and dinner.

NAVAL PROBLEM IN PACIFIC

The Pacific Ocean may not be so much longer. The first breach of peace may come from shipment of war supplies.

According to a recent London dispatch, the government at Moscow has ordered its Pacific navy to convoy Russian freighters from American seaports to Vladivostok. They would presumably be ships sailing from our Pacific ports with copper and other vital war supplies, destined for Russia and ultimately for Germany.

The Russian warships would doubtless have a right to chaperon those freighters across the Pacific. And British warships would have a right to attack them on the way. That would be war in the ocean where we have hoped to preserve peace. It is probably inevitable, sooner or later if not now, as the war spreads.

NEWSPAPER ACHIEVEMENTS

American newspaper editors meeting last week in Washington paid their homage to papers which have exposed "public wrongs" and, through Donald J. Sterling or the Oregon Journal, made this notable statement:

That the American press, in spite of financial difficulties in recent years, "is still solvent and free, responsible and decent, greater in scope of service, 42 per cent more widely read daily and 84 per cent more on Sunday than it was twenty years ago."

They might fairly have added, even while admitting the high merits of the British and Canadian press, that the American newspaper is comparably ahead of all the rest of the world in completeness, accuracy and honesty of news coverage and all-round press services.

"With all this ideological skulduggery going on," says a neighbor, "I have no confidence in anybody any more—not even in myself."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

RELAXATION BRINGS ON SLEEP

A physician is often asked by adult patients as to the length of time they should sleep, and his answer in most cases is that eight hours is about right for most men and women.

Two cases often cited are Thomas Edison who slept about four hours at night and Woodrow Wilson who required nine or ten. Most people forget that Edison was hard of hearing and so, when he slept he was not disturbed by noises low or loud, strange or familiar. Noise is the worst enemy of sleep. Further, it is known that Edison had a couch in his laboratory or work room and could lie undisturbed by noise for many minutes at a time during the day. With no noise disturbing his mental efforts he would naturally be less tired than if his body muscles were kept tensed which is the natural reaction of the body to noise. This tensing of muscles in response to noise is Nature's protection of man, enabling him to react quickly should danger arise. He does not have to draw up the 'slack before he can run or fight.'

It is being able to keep body and mind relaxed that prevents us from becoming tired too soon. A completely relaxed body and mind is getting 80 per cent as much rest as if it were asleep; that is, from the standpoint of heart rate, breathing, temperature, and blood pressure.

When the physician wants the patient to completely relax so that an examination of the abdomen can be made, he asks him to hold his mouth open and breathe slowly through the mouth. This relaxes the body and to a considerable extent the mind also.

This same method may be of help in overcoming sleeplessness in those who find it difficult to get off to sleep because their muscles are tensed and their mind too alert.

"Relaxation is the exact opposite of tenseness. To relax requires no effort. It means to 'let loose,' to stop doing. In learning to relax a person learns to recognize tenseness wherever it occurs in the body." By letting each part of the body go limp or loose—legs, arms, trunk—one after another or all together, tenseness of body disappears and with it often tenseness or alertness of mind.

Sometime, when there is no noise, no light, no draft, no heat or cold keeping you awake, try lying on either side with arms and legs bent and your mouth loose and open. You may snore but you should get off to sleep.

Wiltwyck Arms Closes Its Doors

Wiltwyck Arms, Wall and Marquis streets, formerly the Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium, which has been operating as a hotel since last February closed its doors today and the future of the institution remains unknown.

Theodore G. Peck, manager and president of the hotel corporation, said today that he had no plans for the future and did not know just what would be done with the property.

Operated for many years by the late Dr. C. O. Sahler, the premises were taken over about two years ago by Dr. Jacob

S. Baker and Mr. Peck and operated as a sanitarium. Last fall Dr. Baker disposed of his interest in the sanitarium and the property was continued as a sanitarium by Mr. Peck until the past winter when in January he began to make plans to convert the large 60 room structure into a hotel. Since the property has been operated as a hotel numerous large dinners and public affairs have been held there.

There are approximately 20 permanent guests at the Wiltwyck Arms who have been notified of the closing and given notice to seek quarters elsewhere.

During the past two years the premises have been refurbished and redecorated, sprinkler system installed and the place altered for hotel purposes. A modern bar was installed and the dining room and public affairs have been held there.

Most of the furnishings were removed today and the Wiltwyck Arms ceased to operate.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Brenda's letter from New York says that Linda, Hugh's wife, is clerking in a basement. Hugh can't understand it because he sends Linda $500 a month.

Chapter 17
"Interference"

DO YOU think a woman proud enough to refuse your money all that time—to make no effort to patch up the quarrel—do you think she'll tolerate your finding her in her present circumstances?" asked Brenda.

"Linda is proud," he said again. "Proud as the devil!"

"You're not exactly lamb for meekness yourself, my Hugh! Now listen to Auntie. First, write the bank and find out whether she's using the money you pay in for her."

He gestured impatiently. "No need to! Of course she's not. I see it all now. Why was I fool enough to think she'd accept money from me when—when—"

"Be careful! You're not to tell me about it, you know." She paused, her thoughts busy with this intriguing problem. "Let me alone, Hugh," she said at last. "I mean—give me a day or so to think what should be done. It will have to be the right thing. One false move, and your Linda will have flown."

"My Linda," he muttered, passing one big clever hand over his forehead. "My Linda! How I wish she were—again!"

His caller's grave face brightened. "Grand! Fifty per cent of the situation is okay, at any rate. If I'd had both of you to struggle with—"

He snorted. "If you thought for one minute, Brenda Burnham, that Linda's leaving me was by my wish—with my consent—anything but a bitter blow to me—then you're not the smart girl I considered you."

"Practically everybody on The Street thinks you ordered her out!"

"Then practically everybody on The Street is a fool!"

"Perhaps, Hugh, do you feel perfectly well? It's getting fallish, you know—and lots of people have flu, and flu can so easily go into pneumonia. Don't you feel a little feverish and achy?" she inquired hopefully.

"What the dickens?" Brenda, are you losing your mind? I am in excellent health, thank you. Not that it matters," he tacked on with bitterness.

She sighed. "I thought a telegram to Linda, saying that you were at death's door—

He lit another cigarette, took his time about it. Then he mentioned: "It's plain to be seen you're a fiction writer!"

"And a student of psychology!" she flashed.

"Weell; there might be two opinions about that! Oh, calm down, little Brenda! I didn't mean to hurt your feelings. Great Scott! Haven't I put my fate in your hands?"

"Oh, Hugh, have you?" She was pleased and proud. "I'll do my very best for you, I promise you!"

She rose for the second time. "I'll run on back now and think. There must be some simple, natural way out of this thing, and we'll find it; you'll see!"

On the sidewalk outside Miss Ormond was waiting for her.

"Hereafter," she pronounced grimly, "you're to telephone me when you get these mad urges to visit Hugo Saltus! At least I can see that you're chaperoned!"

'Too Large A Dose'

THIS other letter which interested Brenda that morning was from Ned Barrow. It announced that its writer would return by the end of the week, and demanded to know what she had done for his cause with Alaine Abernathy.

"Thank Goodness this presents no complications," the girl mused. "I shall have a straightforward talk with him, and either prove or disprove that story against him. There's to be no silly misunderstanding in this case!"

Despite herself, her mind dwelt on Mac. Since their latest quarrel they had preserved a sort of armed friendliness: politeness, at all events. He inquired each evening as to the progress of her book; she in turn made courteous comment on his newest advertising display. She knew all about those displays by this time; envied Mac his crisp, succinct use of words, his economy of expression. Secretly she believed him possessed of a somewhat rare ability—and would have died before admitting it to him!

Twice he had invited her to drive with him but as he had also included either Adelaide or Isobel Burke in his invitation, she had had no talk with him alone. Tonight, however, Isobel had a broadcast on: Adelaide went across the street to pay a little call on Miss Ormond.

Mac said nothing of taking out the car. Instead he lighted his pipe and settled himself in a shabby old leather chair with every apparent intention of spending the evening without moving from the spot. Brenda seized her opportunity.

"Mac, I wish you'd tell me something!"

"Tell you anything," he agreed. "I infer it's about The Street? Look here, Brenda, you don't have to shoulder all our burdens, you know!"

"I know I don't," she answered soberly. "And sometimes I wonder if I'm not—not—"

"Butting in?" was his affable suggestion.

She laughed. "It's a horrid expression, but that's what I mean. Here I am, a perfect stranger to all of you, yet trusted with some most intimate affairs. It makes me feel—well, sort of uneasy; humble, you know, as if I had no right to know—all I do know."

He took his pipe from his mouth and regarded her. "You're a nice little thing, Brenda, when you don't get on your high horse. You do have a right to know what is being thrust upon you, certainly. I admit that perhaps nowhere else in the country—certainly nowhere else in this town—is there such a closed corporation as The Street. It started with its physical limitations, of course. It's almost as if we were on a little island, isn't it? And then most of the families have been here so long they know one another's secrets."

"Personality," he continued. "I think you're getting too large a dose of Street affairs. I understand that dear little Dorothy is the latest applicant for advice and sympathy."

"Then tell you?" she demanded, startled.

Curls Or No
HE GRINNED. "Didn't I tell you we have no secrets here on The Street? No, Dorothy didn't tell me but Mrs. Arnold did. She called me up at the office this morning and poured out her woes."

"Called you up at the office! About Dorothy's hair?" Brenda was aghast. She leaned forward urgently. "Mac, tell me! That was what I was going to ask you. Is there anything the matter with Dorothy's mind?"

"Nothing that I know of—save its small size. Dorothy's mind," he elaborated, "is so small you're always falling off the edge of it and bruising yourself. Now you're warned, Brenda! Keep off! Let Dorothy and Mrs. Arnold settle the vexed question of curls or nocurls."

Reluctantly she acknowledged the wisdom of this advice; but her perverse femininity protested.

"Why shouldn't Dorothy have a permanent if she wants one? It's her own money and her own hair; she's surely old enough to decide on a trifle like that!"

He shrugged his shoulders. "It's up to you, my dear! Don't say afterward that I didn't warn you. What?" he went on calmly, "are you going to do about Hugh Saltus? Discontinue your visits to the studio, or take Miss Ormond along with you?"

"I suppose she telephoned you, too?"

"No, she stopped me as I drove in this evening. Said she'd issued an ultimatum."

"She and her ultimatums! I shall pay no attention to her, of course!"

He leaned back lazily and regarded the ceiling. "I'll remind you of that a week from now. What about Ned Barrow? I hear he's returning this week."

"There's precious little you don't hear, it seems to me! But yes, he will be back and I shall ask him about that mother-and-child story."

"And if you find he's married—or ought to be?"

It was her turn to shrug. "I shall discourage Alaine's feeling about him."

He was silent for a moment; when he spoke it was with a note of earnestness in his voice she had not heard before.

"Look here, Brenda! I do think you're swell. I think you've been kindness and friendliness itself to put up with some of us. But—forgive me for saying it, won't you? Interfering with the lives of others is dangerous work, no matter how noble one's motives are. These people are mostly older than you. Let 'em work out their own problems. You came here to write a book. Do it. Let the twins muddle along with their rows and threatened elopements, forget Dorothy's permanent, or lack of it, ignore Maud Van Ness's vaporing; above all, don't try to play Providence to Saltus. You'll be sorry if you do, mark my words!"

A fleeting mood of sweet reasonableness descended upon her, surprising herself almost as greatly as it did Mac. She assented, led him to talk of his work, of the city, of The Street, agreed amiably with everything he said; was in fact so angelic that Mac grew drunk with power and pushed his advantage too far.

weeds. Economic depression increased farm tenancy and a general let-down in farm care. "The indications are," says Kephart, "that the present situation will not greatly improve and that noxious weeds will continue to increase, unless vigorous measures are taken to combat them."

The situation has roused many farmers. The Federal Law has been made more effective. Thirteen states have adopted new laws or revised old laws on weed control, and eight states are cooperating with the Bureau of Plant Industry in weed-control research. The first important achievement was development—as a direct result of research—of a method of bindweed eradication that produced better results with half the labor as a result of better timing of cultivations—at intervals of 14 to 20 days, instead of every 7 or 8 days.

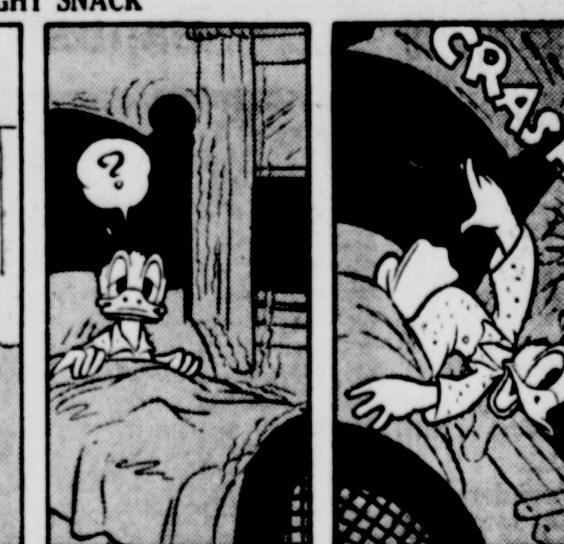

Two factors have played a great part in this spread, Kephart finds. Since 1930 an unusual series of dry years has proved extra favorable for seed production by the Changing administrations won't help much.

Once people learn to milk the public treasury, no politician will dare interfere.

This is the truth:

Nell—John, I am really too good for you. You've heard of people being killed with kindness, haven't you?

John—Yes, dear, but don't be afraid—that kind of murder never gets into the courts.

We are told every day, there is no big money in farming. We agree that this is true, too. But just don't let that there is any big money in?

Mrs.—Here's an invitation from Mrs. Boreleigh to one of her tire-some dinners.

Mr.—Why not plead that you have a previous engagement?

Mrs.—That would be a lie. Edith, dear, write Mrs. Boreleigh that we accept with pleasure.

Henry is an authentic Lincoln story. It has to do with a reception in Springfield. Lincoln had left his tall hat on a chair. A plump dowager had sat upon it. Dolefully regarding the ruin, he said to her: "Madam, I could have told you this wouldn't fit you before you tried it on!"

BIRD TALE

Pueblo, Colo., (AP)—A pair of bluebirds made their home in a garden bird house. When the babies were born, the man who owned the garden took one of them into the house and placed it in a cage. It died on a diet of bird seed. So the man took the cage, placed it in the tree and confined another young bird in it. The father and mother birds fed the little one through the bars. Days later there was a clatter in the early morning and the man awoke to find that the parent bluebirds had opened the cage door and released their baby. That was a year ago. All went well after the baby bird was released. And this year the bluebird family is back in the same house.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
No Rule Covers This
Greenville, S. C.—A goat took the words right out of Inspector J. F. Goodwin's hands.
Goodwin, explaining to a resident regulations covering the keeping of goats, reached into his pocket for printed rules the city health department issues in such cases.
The goat ambled over and ate the paper.

Old Age Security
Crossville, Tenn.—In 1887 E. N. Frisby rode the stage coach to Rockwood, Tenn., and got a job as a section hand for a railroad (Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific).

After working two days he decided the job was too hard, so he quit and walked off without asking for his pay.

Recently, Frisby, now 77, decided he had waited long enough. He wrote the company and received a check for his pay, $2.75—just 53 years late.

Popular Fellow

Salina, Kas.—Three times Joe Morris tried to get a license from the city plumbers' examining board. Three times the board refused him.

The city commission refused to overrule the board.

So Joe gathered up a delegation of 20 persons for whom he had done plumbing.

They told the commission Joe did good work.

The commission voted to abolish the examining board.

Triumph

Albuquerque, N. M.—It wasn't the money. It was the principle of the thing.

Mrs. Mary Coan paid a $2.50 docketing fee to appeal a $1 police court fine for a parking violation.

The fine was revoked, but Mrs. Coan also had to pay a lawyer's fee (amount not disclosed).

Too Much Detail

Chicago—Edward Butten, it would seem, quite a stickler for detail.

Butten's wife, Mary, during a divorce hearing, showed the court a letter accompanying a money order which itemized the 41 cents Butten had deducted from his support money payment.

The deductions included: 14 cents for carfare, 15 cents for money order, 2 cents for postage, and 10 cents for "service charge."

Unimpressed, Judge Joseph Saha ordered Butten to refund the 41 cents, pay up a $35 support arrearage by May 2—or go to jail.

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, April 23—Many from here attended the cooking school held as a demonstration at the I. O. O. F. hall in Olive Bridge last week Wednesday evening. Mrs. Elizabeth Madigan, home economist from the Bridgewater plant of The General Electric Company gave the electric demonstration.

Those from here who attended the classics of The Reformed Churches of Ulster county at Ulster Park Reformed Church last week Tuesday were three elders, Clarence Eckert, John A. Barringer and the pastor, Elder William H. Barringer, also elder Jacob H. Barley of Lyonsville. Reformed Church went with them to represent that church.

Last week Wednesday, Mrs. Katie Davis and Bob, and Mrs. B. Volmer were at Olive Bridge attending a birthday party of Mrs. Cecil Gray.

The officers and members of the local church are pleased that Raymond and Harold Davis last week opened a ditch across the church yard to carry off the water near the church.

Last week Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schults of Brooklyn were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Christensen and their daughter and they also accompanied Oscar Deitrick of Brooklyn and Miss Violet Christensen on their trip to Portland, Conn.

Plans for the supper and party of the church to be held May 9, may soon be announced.

Word has been received at the parsonage that Robert L. and Betty Jane Lobdell, of Nassau, are ill with chicken pox.

Miss Violet Christensen last Wednesday entertained as her dinner guests Mrs. Loren Hover of Krumville, Mrs. Milton Gilbert and Mrs. Dorville Boice of Olive Bridge, Mrs. Francis Davenport of Stone Ridge, and Mrs. Ernest Howard and daughter, Janice, of Kingston.

Mrs. Sarah Miller of Kerhonkson, is visiting her son, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Miller.

Charles Nygaard has been spending a few days lately with his family at their home in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Orlando, Fla., spent the week-end visiting Mr. Davis, sister, Mrs. Florence N. Christiansen, and Mrs. John A. Barringer, and Sunday afternoon they all went to Tuxedo to visit another sister and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Merriweather.

Lincoln and Oscar Christensen of New York, spent the week-end at the home of their parents, and Saturday evening they went with their sister, Violet Christensen, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. John Davenport, to Stone Ridge, where they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Davenport, after which the baggage master places the freight to be loaded into the railroad cars as the train pulls up at the station.

At police headquarters they still tell tales of the strength of the early members of the force. There was hardly a man on the early force who was not capable of seizing two husky men and rapping their heads together if they became unruly and resisted arrest.

In later years the honor of being the strongest man in the department was handed down to the then Patrolman Charles Phinney who is now serving as acting chief of police.

The men mentioned were not the only men of brawn of those days. Perhaps the reader may recall some who have been overlooked.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

They bred men of brawn in those days at the turn of the century, for those were the days when Ivar Jungquist of Delaware avenue, was playing around with weights of more than a ton, while Ralph Mann, the Broadway grocer, was showing how to balance heavy baggage trucks on his chin.

Those were the days when the members of the old police force, now all of them long dead, had to be men of brawn to hold down their jobs. Truly men of great strength were such officers as Bill Ryan, Jim Murphy, Ed Heppner and a host of others whose names at present escape me.

It was at the turn of the century that a young man in his early twenties was beginning to display his great strength. He was Ivar Jungquist, employed as a draftsman by the Cornell Steamboat Company at the offices on East Strand. As far as known he is the only man within recollection who performed spectacular lifting feats in Kingston.

Older readers may recall that Ivar Jungquist had his friend, the late George Main, harness maker downtown, manufacture him a harness of tough leather. With this harness Jungquist one day attempted the feat of lifting a weight of more than a ton.

He hitched the harness to a piece of steel shafting that weighed exactly 2,200 pounds, and then easily raised the heavy mass from the floor. As far as known his feet has never been equaled in a weight of more than a ton.

Although Mr. Jungquist in later years gave up his hobby of lifting heavy weights he did not retire from active service until eight years ago. Although close to 70 years of age, he looks much younger and is still Hale and hearty.

Another whose strength amazed his onlookers was Ralph Mann a former alderman of the Seventh Ward. Ralph thought nothing of taking a wheel barrow by the end of one handle and raising it aloft and balancing it on his chin. One of his most astounding feats, however, was balancing a heavy baggage truck on his chin.

If the reader thinks this is an easy feat let him walk over to the West Shore railroad station where he will find an empty baggage truck near the freight office and attempt to even lift it off the ground. If the reader is still not aware of what a baggage truck is, it is the four-wheeled vehicle on which the baggage master places the freight to be loaded into the railroad cars as the train pulls up at the station.

At police headquarters they still tell tales of the strength of the early members of the force. There was hardly a man on the early force who was not capable of seizing two husky men and rapping their heads together if they became unruly and resisted arrest.

In later years the honor of being the strongest man in the department was handed down to the then Patrolman Charles Phinney who is now serving as acting chief of police.

The men mentioned were not the only men of brawn of those days. Perhaps the reader may recall some who have been overlooked.

Red Hot Alibi

Dos Moines, Iowa—Arrested on a speeding charge, L. W. Robson told the judge he had smelled smoke in his car and was rushing to a garage when a motorcyclist clocked him at 40 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone.

When other testimony corroborated Robson's story of his car being on fire, he was acquitted.

Sunburn Protection

The mineral granules which are embedded in the surface of asphalt shingles do more than provide them with rich, vibrant color, for they also add to their fire-resistance and protect the weatherproofing asphalt coating beneath them from sunlight and the oxidizing effects of the air.

Waiting for a Street Car

Berlin (AP)—Trying to drive a street car is bad enough, but driving it without headlight and no streetlights is nerve-shattering. For that reason, according to the "Berliner Lokal Anzeiger," street car drivers who have been doing night service in the war blackout have been awarded 14 days extra vacation. The men are being sent to Kuehlsborn, a well known bath and spot for those convalescing from nervous troubles.

Feet Deserve Best of Care

Ithaca, April 23—In proportion to its size, the foot does more work than any other part of the body, and is probably the most neglected, says Mildred Carney of the New York state college of home economics.

Feet are delicate and intricate mechanisms and deserve the best of care, she points out. This care will be reflected not only in the face but in the fun a person gets out of life. Proper foot care gives greater efficiency, power to work well and to think straight, foot comfort and good posture, she says.

Her three rules are: Wear shoes and stockings that fit; stand and walk correctly; and take care of the feet from babyhood.

The correct shoe is one that does not restrict circulation in any part of the foot; is long enough to allow the foot to take a natural position in walking; is wide enough to give the toes plenty of room to spread; is fitted so that the big toe joint comes at the widest part of the shoe; is fitted snugly at the instep and heel; and has a heel that is adequate to bear the weight of the body safely and steadily.

"Shoes should always be suited to the occasion. Buy the right shoes for your foot and the life you lead. Give thought and care in choosing shoes so that they combine comfort, style and service.

"The feet spend two-thirds of their lives in shoes. Take care of your feet and they will take care of you."

Lena Rivers to Be Repeated Tonight

The Dramatic Club of St. Peter's Church made its dramatic debut last evening with the successful presentation of "Lena Rivers" which will be repeated this evening.

The cast played to an audience of approximately 250 who responded heartily to the swing and humor of the action. Dorothy Van Etten as Lena Rivers, the heroine, and Frank Leirich, as Old Caesar, the colored servant, took their parts well. Mary Weierich, the youngest member of the cast, took the part of Granny Nichols, the grandmother, and the eldest character in the play with marked talent, and Hank Clarke as the slangy, modern young man of the house, nearly stole the show from the principals.

The other members of the cast, Leo A. Schupp, Helen Cragin, Rose Helen Mellert, Dorothy Diamond, Robert Carter, Jean Camp, Walter Harder, Robert Schatzel and Rita Fautz, all appeared to excellent advantage. The play went with a smoothness and ease with no evidence of any prompting and with none of the comedy lines lost on the audience.

The play was directed by William Houghtaling and will be given at 8:15 this evening. Dancing will follow the performance with Bill Smith's orchestra playing.

Good Taste Today

EMILY POST CAN'T QUITE APPROVE OF TERM "STREAMLINE MANNERS"

She Tells Correspondent It Suggests a Gibleness Lacking in the Kindly Human Quality

Hear the term "streamline" and immediately there appears a parade of thousands of gleaming motor cars, a display of latest models in trains and ocean liners, a diorama of perpetual motion along endless miles of unimpeded roadway, and all the other evidences of the coordination of science and industry. But I had never happened to think of applying the term to manners until this letter arrived, asking: "What is meant by streamline manners? Some one asked me and I said the best I could do was to write you."

To me personally, the connotation of "streamline manners" is not altogether pleasing. It is true that such manners do suggest smooth, easy manners, but they also seem a little glib. To me it doesn't suggest the simplicity of charm but rather a Alphonse-Gaston attitude. In other words, such mechanical smoothness lacks the kindly human quality that must be characteristic of perfect manners.

Wedding Questions About Stepmother

Dear Mrs. Post: In the situation to which I refer in asking your opinion, the bride-to-be was brought up by a stepmother from babyhood. She has really known no other mother. (a) May the engraved wedding invitations read "their daughter"? (b) Also, in a newspaper notice of this marriage should the wording be "daughter of John Henry Smith and the late Mrs. Smith" or may it refer to the first wife as "Mrs. Mary Jones Smith" since there is a Mrs. Smith living?

Answer: (a) Yes. (b) It would be better taste to omit all titles, and word the notice "...daughter of John Henry Smith and the late Mary Jones Smith" rather than "Mrs. Mary..." which is a social taboo.

Introducing Father and Son

Dear Mrs. Post: Should I introduce a father and son when they are together and have the same name?

Answer: You say, "This is Mr. Jones, senior, and Mr. Jones, junior." Or if the son is very young and is some one you know very well, then you introduce them as "Mr. Jones and John—his son." There is no one form that has to be followed, but in both cases it would be very much like this.

Dressing For Tea Dancing

Dear Mrs. Post: What type of dress is worn at a tea dance? My daughter is invited to a men's college for a week-end of what—it seems to me—amounts to a series of dances. One of them is a tea dance and we are not sure what she should take to wear to.

Answer: Any becoming ordinary day dress and hat would be proper. Remember, when dressing to please men, that becomingness is more important than fashion—unless the fashion is coming to you!

Roosevelt Confers With King Today

Warm Springs, Ga., April 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt and W. L. Mackenzie King, Canadian prime minister, began a conference today which may weigh heavily on the relationships of their countries in a critical era of world history. Mr. King arrived at the Warm Springs Foundation at 10:15 a. m. (Central Standard Time) and drove immediately to President Roosevelt's cottage. The chief executive greeted the head of the Canadian government with smile and warm handshake.

The prime minister had breakfasted in Atlanta and come to Warm Springs in a secret service motor car.

Since Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. King last met, war in Europe has underscored a promise the President made in an address at Kingston, Ont., that America would help Canada against any attack from overseas.

What Mr. Roosevelt and the prime minister discussed today was a secret, and likely to remain one.

The reporters had no chance to talk with the Canadian as he rode up to the Warm Springs Foundation.

Mr. King indicated an opinion that in the current status of the war as it affects Canada and the United States, "it is better to let each country take care of its own affairs."

"Since I am in another country than my own I feel I should not talk of subjects on which I might be misconstrued," he said. "After all, it is better to let each country take care of its own affairs."

Indictment to Be Handed Up Against Scalise on Friday

New York, April 23 (AP)—Assistant District Attorney Nathanial Kaplan said in court today that an indictment would be handed up Friday in the $100,000 extortion case against George Scalise, 43, labor union official and former convict.

General Sessions Judge Jacob Gold Schurman, Jr., postponed a hearing on the preliminary charge until Friday morning after Kaplan made his announcement of the impending indictment.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office disclosed that the investigation of Scalise's alleged tribute-exacting operations has been extended into other unions. Scalise is president of the Building Service Employees International Union (AFL), whose members are mostly charwoman, porters and elevator operators.

As the last of more than 100 witnesses testified before the grand jury, Dewey's office indicated that the money allegedly extorted by Scalise would far surpass $100,000 and in all likelihood would total nearly $1,000,000 covering the period of six years during which Scalise has been associated with the union.

Scalise's lawyer, John Kadel, agreed to postponement of the preliminary hearing, saying he did not mind waiting until the grand jury had deliberated fully, because Scalise would be vindicated in any event.

Both Kadel and Scalise insisted the charge of extortion, on which Scalise was arrested Sunday, was merely a political spring-board which District Attorney Dewey hoped would help boost him into the White House.

Kadel said $30,000 from his law firm, not from the treasury of the Building Service Employees International Union, was security for Scalise's bond.

Lehman Effects New Motor Law

Albany, N. Y., April 23 (AP)—More "hand and horn" driving of automobiles to promote safety is the objective of two New York laws.

Governor Lehman approved yesterday a measure requiring a motorist leaving a parked position to give a "visible or audible signal."

Present law requires such signalling "before turning or while in motion."

"The new law is just a move to give a passing motorist additional warning with safety as the object," a motor vehicle bureau spokesman explained.

Another bill recently signed by the governor demands a driver approaching a hill "give timely signal with horn or other signalling device."

Financial and Commercial

Pace on Exchange Slows on Monday

Dealing on the Stock Exchange Monday were at a reduced pace, volume being 870,000 shares vs. 1,154,990 Friday and the market was quiet and irregular in tone, with interest centered mostly in special issues. During the day 49 stocks made new highs for 1940 and 15 made new lows. Curtiss-Wright was the most active stock, advancing one-eighth on a turnover of 45,800 shares. Hercules motors was among stocks making new highs for the year and American Tel. & Tel. closed at 174, within 1½ points of the high for the year. Int. Pap. & Power gained another half point, closing at 20½ in active dealings.

In the Dow-Jones averages industrials had a net gain for the day of 34 point, to 148.01; rails and utilities made slight advances, the former being up .03, to 30.63 and utilities gaining .02, to 24.65.

In the commodity markets the Dow-Jones index advanced to 61.99, then led by grain turned reactionary and closed at 61.51, a loss of .08 from Saturday. Traders attributed the reversal to technical reasons. Thus the wheat market went to a new two-year high, with May contracts going to $1.13, but prices eased and the grain closed at Chicago with futures ¼ higher to 9½ cent a bushel lower.

Firmness in the May position featured the cotton market and the list closed with advances of three to eight points. In refined sugar there was a reduction of ten points on one of the leading offshore brands, to 4.30 cents on immediate shipment business; move did not unsettle the price structure as offshore brands have been available at 4.27½ cents during the past few days.

In London stocks generally were steady. Amsterdam prices extended recovery and domestic issues closed with gains ranging to five points. Paris was firm.

Indications are that U. S. Steel will issue $75,000,000 of serial debentures due in one to 15 years. Proceeds, together with approximately $24,500,000 in cash will be used to retire or redeem on or before July 15 outstanding 3½% per cent debentures totaling $95,140,000, which are callable at 103 and interest.

SEC denied request of Electric Bond & Share for extension of time to which to file a reply to commission's order invoking the "death sentence" clause of the public utility holding act of 1935.

Steel production this week is scheduled at 60 per cent of capacity, 0.9 under last week, lowest since August 7 last. A year ago the rate was 48.6 per cent and in the 1938 week was 32 per cent.

Subsidiary Retail Stores had net loss in 1939 of $180,887, vs. loss in 1938 of $169,053.

Ward's Automotive Reports notes prospects of "consistently improving" business in the auto industry for the second quarter. The single unfavorable factor is the export trade, imperiled by the spread of the European war.

Cincinnati Reds Hold True To High Rating of Experts

(By The Associated Press) The Cincinnati Reds are making all the so-called experts who backed them to repeat for the National League pennant look good.

At the end of the first water-logged week of the schedule they are at the top of their circuit with three games won and none lost, but that isn't the whole story.

They never have been behind in any of the games. Their three prize pitchers have gone the full nine-inning route in every case. No more than one run has been scored against them in any contest. The team hasn't committed a single error.

The 6-1 depth bomb they set off under the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday was the most emphatic indication the champions could have given that they are traveling the same trail they took a year ago.

Stop the Cards

They made a mockery of the challenge the Cards were supposed to be readying this season. They paddled three pitchers for nine hits and bunched three runs in both the third and eighth innings. But more than this they presented a smooth, machine-like ball club behind the effective seven-hit hurling of Bucky Walters, who kept the Cards shut out on five hits until the ninth inning.

St. Louis made two embarrassing errors, both of which figured in Cincinnati's scoring. Another time, three players all ran after a fly and left second base uncovered, giving Harry Craft a two-base hit.

In five games since the season opened, the Cards have lost four and used 15 pitchers, including Clyde Shoun for fractions of four games and three days in a row.

Early Wins Count

One week doesn't make a season, but a champion has to win approximately 95 games and a victory now counts just as much as one in August or September.

Right now the club the Reds probably are watching closest is Brooklyn, undefeated, untied and unscorched upon in two games. But the Reds are sure to stay at the top a day or two longer because the floodwaters of the Ohio river have engulfed Crosley Field at Cincinnati and apparently will keep them idle until the schedule moves the club to Chicago Thursday.

Rain and snow prevented any eastern games in either league yesterday. In the other western game of the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates continued undefeated with a 9-5 verdict over the Chicago Cubs. It was a wild home opener for the Buccaneers, with 19 hits, 12 bases on balls and six errors making everything uncertain. Nevertheless the Pirates took the lead in the first inning and never relinquished it.

Hudlin Stops Browns

Willis Hudlin added another good pitching performance to the Cleveland Indians' totem with a seven-hit job that stopped the St. Louis Browns 5-2 and lifted the Tribe into a tie with the idle Boston Red Sox for first place in the American League. All of Cleveland's runs were crowded into the first inning, when Howard Mills couldn't get even one batter out.

The Detroit Tigers put across two runs in the ninth on Earl Averill's pinch single to beat the Chicago White Sox 6-5 and give Rookie Dick Conger credit for his first major league victory on one ninth's effort. The Sox relied on another freshman, Valie Eaves, who did an amazing job of holding the enemy to three runs in 7 2/3 innings during which he gave seven hits, 12 bases on balls and made two wild pitches. Yet Clint Brown was charged with the loss.

Lynn Nelson of Detroit was struck on the head by a line drive and Luke Appling of Chicago was spiked on the knee during the game, but neither was hurt seriously.

Electrocuted, But—

EXPECTS TO CATCH AGAIN

Freeman Photo

Despite the accident which almost cost him his life, Big Gene Rider smiles confidently that he'll be able to continue catching for local baseball teams. The husky lineman, who almost was electrocuted recently, is convalescing at his home, nursing severe burns on his legs and some on his hands. While confined to his easy chair, he keeps in touch with the sports world in general and muses over the baseball scores of the major league teams.
